

HOW IT WAS DONE.

President to Issue Statement Setting Forth His Part.

In the Russo-Japanese Treaty--Which Will Be Fully Consummated This Week.

[Special to THE REPUBLICAN.]
Washington, D. C., Sept. 5, 1905.

The enthusiasm felt in Washington over President Roosevelt's large part in bringing the Russian and Japanese peace envoys together is to be displayed in a popular welcome to the President when he returns to the city. Washington is on particularly good terms with President Roosevelt. He has been a resident of the city so long since from his term in the White House and many of the leading citizens know him personally, so that the man in the street feels that he is better acquainted with him than any president for many administrations past. The return welcome that is being planned probably will not include a parade or set speeches but will consist in greeting the President at the depot as was done two years ago and escorting him to the White House. It will be a personal tribute to his work for peace and will be the informal sort of greeting that the President much prefers to more set and stilted affairs.

Of course the plaudits of the world that have been showered on the President have awakened talk as to whether the enthusiasm was likely to carry him off his feet and make him willing to accept a nomination for a third term. In this connection it will only be necessary to point to President Roosevelt's statement last election night when he said that under no circumstances would he consent to another nomination. He said at that time that it was a wise provision that unwritten law restricted the President to two terms, and that while he had been only once elected, he had been President at that time for three and a half years and he proposed to regard the substance and not the form of the precedent that had been honored from the time of Washington.

It is quite possible, however, that the President may have something to say a little later as to the part he personally played in the peace negotiations. Up to the present, his part in the negotiations has been well and properly guarded. Alone and unadvised the President took a step never before attempted by any chief magistrate and threw himself between the hostile envoys till their instructions could be changed by the two sovereigns to whom he appealed. The text or substance of those notes to St. Petersburg and Tokyo has never been divulged and it probably will be well to keep them secret till after the treaty of peace has been signed. But then there will be a great deal of pardonable curiosity to know just what steps the President took that caused such a complete and sudden change in the attitude of Japan. But that he bore an important personal part is shown if by nothing else in the telegrams of congratulations that reached him from King Edward, the Kaiser, the Czar himself and other continental monarchs who ascribed the conclusion of peace as a direct tribute to his intervention. Great pressure has been brought to bear on the President to divulge the text of his notes to the two rulers, and it is possible in the near future that he may either in a public address or in an official statement say something that will throw light on this interesting chapter in modern diplomacy.

Correction of a Possible Wrong Inference.

Under the headlines of "midnight visitors" we published last week an article concerning a lay ride to our town from a neighboring community the data for which was furnished us by individuals of the highest integrity, and in publishing same there was no intention or desire to misrepresent exaggerate or magnify; yet we are informed by individuals, also of high integrity, who say they were in the visiting party, that errors occurred in the article. They say that aside from the noise and laughter, which attended the serving of luncheon, there was no disturbance. It was not intended that any one should infer from the article published that anybody except a few of the gentlemen partook of the spirits and this three of the gentlemen in the crowd say is not even the case.

We did not know at the time of the publication of the article mentioned who a single individual was that composed the crowd, hence, of course we had no motive whatever in publishing the article.

PEANUT ROASTER.

Explodes and Kills Young Boy and Fatally Wounds Another One.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 4.—Fred Dillman, a nine-year-old boy, met death in a most unusual manner this afternoon. While playing near a peanut roaster this afternoon the boiler of the machine exploded and particles of flying glass and iron struck him on the side of the neck and severed his jugular vein. He bled to death in a very few seconds.

The peanut roaster was owned by Vincent Amerso, an Italian. Amerso who was in charge of the roaster at the time of the explosion, was badly burned and scalded. His injuries are serious and he is not expected to live.

When the boy was struck by the flying particles of glass and iron he staggered about twenty feet and fell to the ground in a lifeless condition.

Death of W. E. Morton.

Mr. W. E. Morton died at his home at Ceralvo last Friday after a brief illness. Will, as he was familiarly known in his home community was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Morton and was born and reared in the Ceralvo neighborhood. At an early age he had qualified himself for a position as teacher in the public schools in which capacity he taught several terms giving up the work to enter the Mercantile business at Ceralvo which he was still conducting at the time of his death. After funeral services conducted by Rev. T. M. Morton, under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of which he was a member, his remains were interred in the Ceralvo cemetery Saturday at 3 o'clock. The Ceralvo lodge assisted by members of the Hartford Lodge F. and A. M., conducted the burial rites in a most impressive manner, and a large circle of friends and relatives attested the high esteem in which Willie was held in his home community by their presence and interest in the funeral and burial rites.

The Indians are Coming.

When the Nebraska Indian Baseball Team comes to the field with scowling faces and savage war whoops some of the people in the grand stand begin to grow nervous. There is no occasion for this, however. The Indians are simply showing their irrepressible spirits and never have any trouble with anyone. Those who see their game with Ohio county team, in the Fair Grounds at Hartford Ky., on Saturday, September the 16, 1905, certainly have a treat in store.

HARGIS CONTEMPT CASES

Called and Trial of French is Begun.

Hargis, Callahan and Fields Demanded Separate Trial Which was Granted.

Winchester, Ky., Sept. 4.—The calling-to-day before Circuit Judge J. M. Benton of the contempt cases against Alex Hargis, Judge James Hargis, B. F. French, Ed Callahan, Sam Fields and Mose Feltner, charged with contempt of court in the alleged causing of several witnesses to leave the State during the trial of Mrs. James B. Marcum's damage suit for the murder of her husband resulted in the Commonwealth's electing to try French. When court adjourned ten jurors had been accepted by both sides.

When the case in which French, Callahan and Senator Hargis were jointly indicted was called the Commonwealth answered ready, and court adjourned until the afternoon to allow the defendants to consult. Alex H. Hargis promptly asked for a separate trial, which was granted.

When court met in the afternoon French and Callahan filed an affidavit demanding that Judge Benton vacate the bench and alleged as a reason therefore that he was and had been for a long time prejudiced against them, and that they did not believe they would get a fair and impartial trial at his hands. Judge Benton did not discuss the allegation of the affidavit, but promptly refused to vacate.

An effort was also made by defendants to prevent Sheriff McCord from exercising the functions of his office for the same alleged reasons, but Judge Benton also refused to require the Sheriff to vacate.

At this point Callahan asked for a separate trial which was granted, and of the three defendants, the prosecution elected to try B. F. French.

The trial of Felix Feltner last spring resulted in a fine of $3,000 and imprisonment in the Jail at hard labor for two years.

Burglary at Beaver Dam.

Mr. E. J. Tilford's store, at Beaver Dam, was broken into last Friday night and about $450 worth of jewelry including watches, rings, etc., was stolen. An entrance to the house was gained by forcing the front door.

The drug store of R. T. Taylor was also entered but only a few dollars in cash was procured.

Bloodhounds were procured but they failed to scent the track and at last report all effort to capture the thief or to ascertain who the guilty party is, had failed. Suspicion, however, points to two unknown parties who had been in camp near Beaver Dam during a few days preceeding.

Opening of Hartford College

If the opening of Hartford College last Monday is to be taken as the indices for the school year the school will certainly have a very bright and prosperous year. More boarding students matriculated than ever before at the fall term of the institution and the teachers, home pupils and home people began the year's work with renewed interest. Hartford College has educated more teachers and people in all honored and honorable walks of life than any institution in western Kentucky and the brilliant beginning bespeaks for it a most prosperous year.

The following is a list of the out of town students in attendance: Arbye Brown, Vera and Katie Hawkins, Prudie Ford, Golda Cecil, Cova Roby, Isaac Christian, Roscoe Render, Ross Bennett, Will Crowe, Cass Ross, Otis Wallace, Henry Edmonson, Owen Jones, George Barkat, Joseph Champagne, Henry Dupuis, George John, and Roy Bennett, and others still arriving.

THOUSANDS OF FAIR WOMEN HERALD PRAISES OF PE-RU-NA.

Catarrh and Catarrhal Diseases Make Invalids of More Women Than All Other Ailments Combined.

Suffered Long With Catarrh.

Miss Clara Case, 715 9th street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I can think of no event in my life that fills me with more gratitude and at the same time a sense of future security, as a cure after long suffering from catarrh, brought about by using Peruna as directed. It has completely cured me."—Clara Case.

Entire System Toned by Pe-ru-na.

Miss Mary Bennett, 1619 Addison Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "A few months ago I contracted a cold by getting my feet wet, and although I used the usual remedies I could not shake it off. 'I finally took Peruna. In a week I was better. After several weeks I succeeded in ridding myself of any trace of a cold, and besides the medicine had toned up my system so that I felt splendid.'—Mary Bennett.

Physicians Had Given Up the Case—Now Entirely Well.

Miss Gertrude Linford, Vice President Parkside Whist Club and teacher of Whist, 241 Niagara street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Peruna has effectually cured me after physicians had practically given up my case. 'For a long time I suffered with catarrh of the kidneys, had a weakness and pain in the back, lost flesh rapidly, my feet were swollen, my face was puffed under the eyes and I had a waxy sallowness of the skin. 'I took Peruna for some time and am entirely well. I cannot endorse Peruna too strongly.'—Gertrude Linford.

If you suffer from catarrh in any form, do not delay. Take Peruna at once. Delays are dangerous.

Miss Nalley's Story—Short, But Interesting to Every Woman.

Miss Addie Nalley, 137 D street, S. E., Washington, D. C., writes: "A cough, the grip, catarrh of the meanest kind—all sorts of remedies, home, patent and prescribed by doctors, and no relief—that tells my story, a story of suffering and distress that lasted four years. 'Then—three bottles of Peruna—catarrh gone, appetite and strength returned—a happy woman, and none more grateful for the blessing of health—that is what Peruna has done for me.'—Addie Nalley.

AIR SHIP BLOWN.

To Atoms By Dynamite While
1,500 Feet In Air.

Fragments of the Airship and Aeronaut Were Scattered Over Twenty-Acre Field.

Greenville, O., Sept. 1.—In sight of 25,000 persons, Prof. John E. Baldwin's airship was blown to atoms here this afternoon by the explosion of six sticks of dynamite while 1,500 feet in the air. His wife and children were among the spectators who witnessed the tragedy.

Baldwin had been giving daily exhibitions at the county fair here. He would ascend several thousand feet in the air and explode dynamite at intervals. To-day he had mounted 1,500 feet in the air and his airship was soaring as gracefully as a bird. Every eye among the thousands of thrilled spectators below watched him until he became almost a mere speck. Suddenly a great cloud of smoke appeared. It hid the airship from view, the spectators supposed, as the balloon had vanished completely from sight. In another moment the sound of the explosion reached the straining ears of the watchers, but the airship did not again appear to vision. For a moment the crowd waited expectantly, thinking that a view of the aeronaut would be obtained through a rift in the smoke. A second, two, three, and finally a minute passed, and the supposed smoke did not clear.

Then a groan of horror rose from the multitude. The airship had vanished. Where it had been but a moment before was only space, space infinite.

Twenty-five thousand pairs of eyes searched in vain over the heavens for the speck which had been human life. The groan of horror was suddenly broken with a woman's shriek. The practiced eye of Baldwin's wife told her of the tragedy in the clouds before the crowds could fully comprehend. With the one piercing scream she fell in a dead faint before the vast crowd realized what had happened.

Searches immediately began looking for fragments of the wrecked airship. A half mile away they found pieces of silk cloth, of which the balloon was made, and splinters of the basket-like frame work on which the aeronaut had been perched. Scattered about a twenty-acre field were found fragments of Baldwin's body. The distance at which the remnants of the airship fell was so great that the crowds had not seen the fragments fall. No one can tell how the accident occurred.

The six sticks of dynamite which Baldwin carried with him exploded simultaneously, as only one report was heard. It is supposed that in igniting the fuse connecting with the dynamite he fired the gas in the balloon and that it exploded, causing the dynamite to explode also.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Don't Know It.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in 50c. and $1. sizes.

BRYAN'S UNDERSHIRT.

Was Used To Drain Potatoes at a Chautauqua Dinner.

[Savannah News.]

When William Jennings Bryan, twice Democratic nominee for the Presidency of the United States, appeared at the Chetek (Wis.) Chautauqua a year ago, he was entertained at the summer cottage of Eau Claire's ex-Mayor, W. H. Frawley.

The day was stifling hot. Mr. Bryan had just completed a two-hour talk and finished shaking hands with several thousand people. Perspiration poured down his face. His collar was wilted and his clothing clung to him as wet as though he had been soured in the lake. He was rowing over to the Frawley cottage. Arriving there the great Nebraska said to his host and friend: "Bill, I would like to change my undershirt."

He was ushered into the guest's chamber, where the change was made. Mr. Frawley took the damp garment just discarded by the orator to the kitchen, where he hung it on the steel towel rod which projects from the range.

Several prominent ladies present assisted the hostess to prepare the sumptuous dinner, already a trifle late.

"The potatoes are done," said one lady, poking a fork into the Murphys in the pot.

"I'll drain them," said Mrs. Frawley.

The regular draining utensil had not been brought into camp.

"Take a towel!" said one.

The hostess grabbed in the general direction of the steel towel rod projecting from the range.

Something soft and white came.

Another grab and the pot of potatoes was on the way to the back door.

In a minute the potatoes were drained as potatoes were never drained before.

The operation just completed, Mrs. Frawley's eye caught for the first time the unfamiliar red mark.

"Oh! Oh! Oh!" she cried.

The other ladies rushed to her assistance, fearing she had scalded herself.

"What's the matter? What's the matter?" they asked.

"Oh! girls, I've strained the potatoes in Bryan's shirt!" said the hostess, ready to collapse.

And sure enough she had!

COULDN'T KILL HIMSELF.

Remarkable Story of Would-Be Suicide Who Was Folled.

[Lawson (Miss.) Ore.]

A farmer living at Cottonwood Township, Lesueur County, Minnesota, made a desperate but unsuccessful attempt to take his own life yesterday on his farm because of a disappointment in love that lately came upon him.

The would-be shuffer-off of the coil has always been noted for being a sincere, earnest and thorough man with a hankering for the drastic and wholesale, seeking even to have too or even more, strings to his bow and as many anchors to the windward as possible, and this tendency came perilously near to being the last thing that characterized him on this planet.

Nothing could be more business like than his preparations for his latter end nor exhibit a greater far-sightedness in avoiding failure.

He selected the barn as the scene of his last activities and provided himself with a well-oiled, strong, slender rope, a strychnine capsule filled with enough of the drug to kill a cow, a loaded revolver and some matches, shavings and firewood.

He first tied the rope to a high beam in the barn with a proper noose at the lower end, dangling conveniently near to the edge of the hay and then piled up his wood beneath the place and started, with shavings and matches, a small flame that he calculated would soon grow to a large one, consume the barn and make him an elegant funeral pyre. As soon as the blaze began to eat its way into the wood he hastily climbed upon the haymow, adjusted the noose about his neck, cocked the revolver, holding it in his right hand ready for use, popped the strychnine capsule into his mouth and tried to swallow it.

Alas for the plans of man! His mouth and throat, with all his hurry and excitement, were as dry as dust and the oblong pill wouldn't go down. He craned his neck and gulped at it frantically, for the fire was burning brightly now, got still more excited and slipped over the edge of the mow before he was ready; the rope closed in on his guilt and in an instant shut off the capsule from where it would do any good.

But the revolver was still in his hand and he was all nerve, even if he were getting no air. He raised the weapon to the side of his head and fired.

Once more, alas! The aim was poor and the bullet after gouging a great furrow in his scalp, glanced over the top of his skull, cut the rope and dropped our hero with a crash into the fire, putting out its new-born flame at once, while the puff he gave as his shoulder struck the floor shot the poisoned pill far, far away.

When Beveridge Laughed.

"The direction of my career was completely changed," said United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge to the writer, "by a careless laugh. When I was a youth in Illinois I heard that the Congressman from our district intended to hold an examination to determine what young man he should appoint to West Point. I pitched in and studied hard for that examination, and found it easy when I came to take it. Most of the other fellows seemed to be still struggling with it when I had finished, and I was so confident that I had made few mistakes that I was in a pretty cheerful frame of mind. This is why I laughed when one of the strugglers asked a rather foolish question of the professor in charge. The latter evidently felt that the dignity of the occasion had been trifled with, for he scored 1 per cent against me. When the papers came to be corrected this loss caused me to fail one fifth of 1 per cent below the boy who stood highest on the list. He is a Captain in the army now, where I suppose I should be had it not been for that laugh. I believe in the power of cheerfulness. Looking back, I am rather glad that I laughed."

TINY MOUSE

of Diamonds Was Hidden.

[Philadelphia Dispatch.]

The whisk of a mouse's tail as it disappeared into a hole, where it had made a nest in a box that also contained diamonds valued at $1,000 enabled Detective Tate, Jr., to clear up yesterday the theft of the jewels from J. Castleberg & Co., of the Mint Arcade Building. Following the course taken by the rodent, Tate came across the diamonds hidden beneath the flooring of a stable owned by Dr. J. Boger at 2213 North Board street. They had been hidden there by Thomas Dixon, a negro servant, who obtained them, it is alleged, by swindling the Castleberg firm.

Dixon, in July, obtained the diamonds to sell on commission. In a few days he reported that he had been waylaid and robbed of the jewels. Not believing his story, the Castleberg had him arrested. Dixon then caused the arrest of the negro who, he swore, was the man who robbed him. They proved an alibi and Dixon was held for trial, charged with stealing the diamonds.

Detective Tate was detailed to find the gems that Dixon was supposed to have hidden. He learned that the negro had been employed by Dr. Boger, and yesterday made a search of the stable. Tate peered into every hole and corner of the place. He pulled up loose boards on the floor, and was about to give up the quest in disgust when a mouse jumped into a tiny hole in the corner. Tate thought that the incident was a good omen and started on the mouse's trail. After pulling up a number of boards he came upon a small box. In it were missing jewels.

Dixon will probably be indicted on a charge of perjury based on the assertions he made under oath that the two other negroes had stolen the jewels from him.

BEARDED SORCERESS.

Is Stirring Up Chinese, and Plans
Another Boxer Out-

[China Mail.]

It is reported that in the eastern part of the Province of Kwantung there is a considerable movement on foot which, in some respect, resembles the Boxer outbreak of 1900. The leader of this restless movement is said to be a bearded woman. She has been urging the People to form themselves into a guild or association. She gives out that she is an incarnation of a fairy, who has come down to teach the people the arts of magic. During the spring large number of people have been moved to follow her lead. She can cast out fox devils—in which the Chinese are profound believers can foretell events distinctly and announce what happiness or misery shall befall the lot of others.

By the same "mighty magic," moreover, like the leaders of the Boxer insurrection, she promises immunity to all her sincere followers from bullet of rifle and thrust of spear, as well as from the effects of water and fire. The people are said to be deeply moved. Wealth is pouring into the coffers of the leaders, so that they have provided themselves with weapons, and are now being joined by large numbers of local banditti, of whom, in every place in China, there are more than enough. They have already assumed the offensive and have looted some rice stores and other shops.

What their ultimate purpose is does not yet appear, but they are laying in stores of provisions, and have so far terrorized their neighbors that many of the well-to-do of the people are fleeing for their lives and seeking safety in quieter districts. It is reported that already they can muster more than 10,000.

It is believed, however, that the incarnated fairy who appears in the form of a bearded woman, is nothing more than a man who has assumed this guise for the sake of secrecy and effect. Several counties have been infected by the contagion.

WEALTHY LUNATICS

Kidnapped a Girl and Imprisoned Her in a Bird Cage.

(St. Petersburg Co.) Washington Post.

Vladikavkaz, in the Caucasus, has been the scene of an extraordinary trial which has set all Russia talking.

Ivan Vitkovski and Israel Grun, two venerable, wealthy and highly respected citizens, were charged with kidnapping numerous young women of good family and treating them in an unusual manner. As a result of the trial, both Vitkovski and Grun will spend the evening of their days as "paying guests" in an asylum for the insane. During the year of 1902 and 1903 no fewer than 14 girls, belonging to the most exclusive families in Vladikavkaz, were abducted under remarkable circumstances. In every instance the victim returned to her home, after a short absence, with an amazing story of her adventures. Not a girl was any the worse for her experience, all had such extraordinary tales to tell that it was evident that the town contained more than one eccentric, if not insane, inhabitant of great wealth.

The last victim of the demented and aged pair of kidnapers was Marya Savin, who, about a year ago was supposed to have been captured by brigands for the sake of a ransom. Marya was an heiress and the belle of Vladikavkaz and police and public united in a systematic search for the missing heiress. Bloodhounds were employed, but in the midst of the excitement Marya returned to her home as suddenly as she had disappeared. Her story was even more exciting than that of previously kidnapped women, and it was owing to the following tale which she told that Vitkovski and Grun were eventually brought to justice:

"I woke up in the night," she said, "and was terrified by seeing two gray-bearded men, both masked bending over me. I was two frightened to scream, and the men, without uttering a word, placed a gag in my mouth and blindfolded me. Then they lifted me up from my bed and carried me as I was into the streets, where I was thrust into a waiting carriage. We drove at a furious pace for what seemed but a short distance, but I think I must have fainted. When I was revived and the bandage was taken from my eyes I discovered that I was in an luxuriously appointed room, furnished as a library. In the corner of the apartment stood a large gilded cage constructed, it appeared, for some gigantic prehistoric bird. My captors, still without uttering a word handed me a close-fitting feather dress, mind apparently of many thousand of yellow birds' skins. They motioned to me to put this on, and then gently pushed me into the cage, fastening the door behind me. One of the old men (who now proves to have been Vitkovski) brought me costly food; the other man (Grun) I never saw again. Vitkovski used to come and gaze at me through the bars of the cage; sometimes he threw lumps of sugar the bars. Early every morning he would enter the library with a jug of boiling water. This he would pour into a big birds' bath attached to the side of the cage. "Wash, birds!" he would exclaim. These were the only words I ever heard him utter. I felt sure that the man must be a lunatic, and was extremely nervous of what he would do to me. But when I almost despaired of regaining my freedom the old man came to the cage late one night and signed to me to come down from my feather costume. Again, with one speaking a word, he blindfolded me, and, guiding me to a carriage; drove me within a few yards of my home."

Almost all the fancy shops in Vladikavkaz now display in their windows a picture postcard adorned with photographs of the "Laidy-bird in a Gilded Cage."

Typhoid Kentucky's Manace.
The real danger in Kentucky lies not in yellow fever, but in typhoid fever. More people die in this State from the latter disease every month than have ever died here from yellow fever. We had better concern ourselves at home. The 13,305 cases last year could have been prevented. Malaria fever can be prevented by the same precautions that are required to prevent yellow fever. Screened houses will practically eliminate both typhoid and malaria fevers in Kentucky. By proper precautionary measures we can eliminate consumption. If all the sputum coughed up in a year were destroyed as it is coughed up there would be no consumption in Kentucky. Typhoid fever, which could have been prevented, cost Kentucky last year over $900,000, besides the lives that were sacrificed." Statements of Drs. J. M. McCormick and William Bailey, of the State Board of Health.

REAL THING IN AIRSHIPS.

Greek Invents One That Will Run Against The Wind.

(London Co.) New York Herald.

A new airship, the invention of a Greek named Marinakis, which has been patented in the United Kingdom and British colonies, and which has obtained the favorable opinion of several British experts is to be tried soon before representatives of the War office, who were impressed by the report upon the machine by H. C. Braun, technical adviser to the London Chamber of Arbitration who says:

"I have gone most carefully into the invention, and procured more than one sketch of the model, the frame, the wind guard and the tractor, and am prepared to say I consider the invention exceedingly clever. I have no hesitation in saying that the invention is a distinct step in the right direction and likely to lead to the most important results in aerial navigation."

One of the many difficulties connected with navigation of the air has been the inability of airships to oppose contrary current. Marinakis considers that he has surmounted this difficulty. His vessel is so constructed that a current of air which otherwise would interfere with the desired course of the ship is broken up, deflected and caused to pass alongside, thereby more or less nullifying the pressure of side currents.

The silent point of the invention is the tractor, which is placed in the front part of the airship, where it does the double duty of propulsion and steering. It can be driven by any motive power being composed of four or more arms equal to are longer than half the diameter of the airship.

The objects of this arrangement is to protect the front part of the ship from the influence of wind, blades of proportionate size are so as to move the airship forward whilst protecting its side from the wind.

Attached to the tractor is a wind guard of ingenious character. The airship is steered by the varying direction of the vertical axis on which the tractor is curved. The motor is placed at the rear. The airship has a long, cylindrical body.

TINY GIRL.

Ten Years Old Swims a Mile in Thirty-Three Minutes.

(Boston Co.) Chicago Chronicle.

A remarkable swimming feat was accomplished in Dorchester Bay when little Rose Pitonof, the ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Pitonof, of 337 Freeport street, swam over a mile in the phenomenal time of 33 minutes.

The world's amateur record for a mile, made by B. Keran some years ago in Australia, is 24 minutes 36 one-fifth seconds. The performance of yesterday, which was witnessed and recorded by competent judges, is without doubt the best record ever made by a girl amateur swimmer.

The little girl started at the Savin Hill bench, Dorchester, in company with a playmate, Hattie Vaughn, a girl of 12 years, in an effort to break the record made a few weeks ago over the same course by Miss Schillander, of Dorchester, 15 years old, a frequent of the Freeport street baths. The latter made the distance in 36 minutes 30 seconds.

The Vaughn girl, although more experienced in swimming, could not keep up with her playmate, and at the finish was just one minute behind but she, too, of course, broke the record of Miss Schillander.

The nearest approach to the Pitonof performance of yesterday is found in the record made by Miss Kellerman, the crack Australian swimmer, who made a mile in baths in 33 minutes 49 seconds. Had it not been for the choppy condition of the water yesterday it is believed that much better time would have been made by both girls.

The children were accompanied on the trip by their instructor, George De Cost, who has done much during his stay at the Freeport street baths in perfecting the youngest element in the art of swimming. He trained Miss Schillander.

Both girls used breast stroke the entire distance and were in such excellent condition at the finishing point that when they were asked by Mr. De Cost if they would care to make the return trip both consisted. He refused, however, to allow them to do so. At no time were they in need of assistance, and during the swim frequently smiled and readily answered questions which were put to them.

The girls are great favorites at the Freeport street baths. Neither child had attempted a long-distance swim before.

The Colonel's Waterloo.

Colonel John M. Fuller, of Honey Grove, Texas, nearly met his Waterloo, from Liver and Kidney trouble. In a recent letter, he says: "I was nearly dead, of these complaints, and, although I tried my family doctor, he did me no good, so I got a 50c bottle of your great Electric Bitters, which cured me. I consider them the best medicine on earth, and thank God who gave you the knowledge to make them." Sold and guaranteed to cure, Dyspepsia, Biliousness and Kidney Disease, by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggist, at 50c a bottle.

Asleep For Seven Weeks.

Marshalltown, Iowa, Sept. 2. For over seven weeks W. F. Burkes, aged 32, of Mason City, has been asleep, not waking at any time to recognize any of the friends about him. He receives nourishment, will eat it without, to all appearance, knowing it has been given him. The doctors are puzzled and pronounce the case one of the most peculiar in medical history. Burkes is a telegraph operator. Although he appears to be in health and sleeping a natural sleep, he is slowly approaching what seems almost certain death.

Incredible Brutality.

It would have been incredible brutality if Chas. F. Lemherger, of Syracuse, N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "cut a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklin's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed and saved his eye." Good for burns and ulcers too. Only 25c at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., drug store.

A New Version.

If you should turn backwards, O time in your flight, and make me a child again just for tonight, would my mother draw me once more o'er her knee and with her slipper put ker-bosh into me? Would she take the find comb and examine with care this old coconut that used to grow hair? Would she plow up my scalp and plow it for keeps, and if I object slap me to sleep? Turn back to the time when I was too young to vote and the bank wasn't pushing that sixty-day note; when I didn't have to hustle to pay my grocery bills, and my little bosom filled with gosling's love thrills. Take from my muscle this rheumatic pain; take it and give me my childhood again, I have grown weary of dust and decay, weary of humping day after day, weary of sowing for chinch bugs to reap, but I don't need anybody to reckon me to sleep.

Always Successful.

When indigestion becomes chronic it is dangerous. Kodol Dyspepsia will cure indigestion and all trouble resulting therefrom, thus preventing catarrh of the stomach. Dr. Newbrough, of League, W. Va., says: "To those suffering from indigestion or sour stomach I would say there is no better remedy than Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I have preferred it for a number of my patients with good success." Kodol Dyspepsia cure digests what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

REMARKABLE STORY

Of Father Who Buried His Son Alive to Cure Paralysis.

(Hartford Co.) London Leader.

A fifteen-year-old boy, and son of a farmer named Emilio Conti, living in the districts of Campo di Marti, has met with a terrible death through the ignorance and superstition of his father.

The boy had for years suffered from paralysis and epilepsy, and his father had vainly consulted various doctors and tried numerous remedies to secure his recovery.

Lately he was advised by a certain Ernesto Monti, a man of 25, who enjoyed the reputation of being a magician in the locality, to bury the boy in a grave, leaving only his mouth and nostrils free. He was to allow the boy to remain in that position for five days, at the expiration of which he would be cured of his complaint.

Conti accordingly dug a pit at the rear of his house, and the epileptic, made no attempt to resist his father's inhuman deed.

Conti's neighbors, having heard of the affair, remonstrated with him but to no purpose. He was sure, he said that the magician could be trusted, and that his son would be cured.

The day following the burial Dr. Frascanti, a local practitioner, who also tried to persuade Conti to extricate the boy from his living grave, informed the commandant of the corps of carabinieri and a number of soldiers were at once sent to the spot with orders to remove the boy.

On their arrival at the improvised grave they found Conti occupied in rubbing the boy's head and face, the upper part of which was all that appeared above the ground, with brandy.

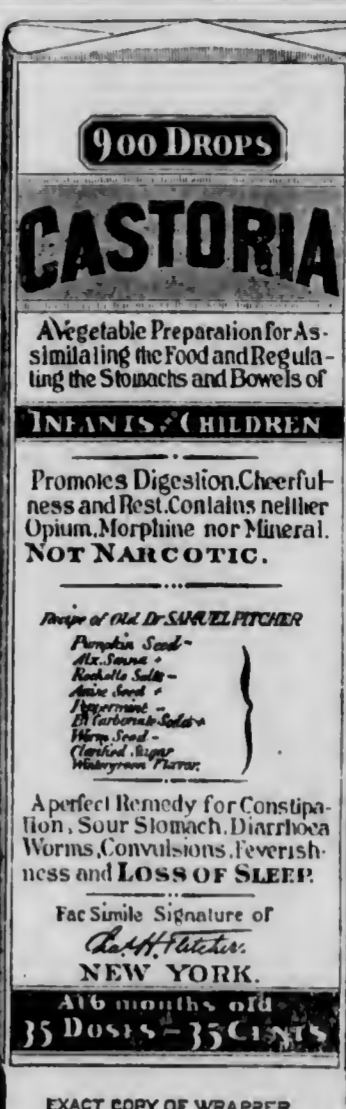

Three soldiers were immediately set to work to extricate the lad—a delicate operation, as at every attempt to remove him he screamed with pain.

Finally, having been dug out, and the clods of earth and clay removed from his paralyzed limbs he was conveyed to the hospital, where he died the same evening from the shock to the nervous system.

The father and Ernesto Monti, the so-called magician are both to be presented.

The Hogs Had Gone.

An exchange says: "Not long ago a Kansas woman wrote a Missouri farmer with whose family she spent last summer and told him she would like to go again this summer, but that she objected to the manners of the hired girl and to the fact that the swine were kept too close to the house. His answer has put the woman on the fence. He said: You can come all right. Hanna has went, and they ain't been no hogs on the place since you and your family left last summer."

SO FAR as we are informed Judge Jas. P. Miller and County Attorney W. H. Barnes have invariably been two of the three members of the iron bridge construction committees and by reason of that fact are possibly in a position to explain how that competition does not cheapen the price when it is an iron bridge that is being bought.

AT a meeting of the bridge building committees held at the office of Judge Miller last Friday, of which Mr. Wysong, the representative of the Champion Bridge Co., seemed to be an honorary member, we are informed, the contract for the building of the three iron bridges ordered at a recent call session of the Fiscal Court was awarded to the Champion Bridge Co., Mr. Wysong voting in favor of the award. It was not generally known that the committees would meet and no one except the members were present. It is generally believed that the trade for the bridges was practically agreed on at the time the Champion Bridge Co.'s man was here a few weeks ago, and the meeting last Friday was called to complete or consummate that trade. The Champion Bridge Co.'s man remained in secret consultation with Judge Miller for some time after the committees had adjourned and the members thereof had left. The prices agreed on have not been reported.

BRIDGE QUESTIONS STILL NOT ANSWERED.

After persistent entreaty, persuasion, coaxing, cajoling and interrogation for a period of more than three months and by employing all known means that might move the mind or passion of man, to influence the members of the Democratic ticket who have always constituted the self appointed working majority of the building committees that have had the various iron bridges constructed in the county during the past few years or some one for them to explain what the bridges have cost and why they have not been built by contracts let to the lowest bidders at public outcry, THE REPUBLICAN has at last induced the Hartford Herald to feebly and pitifully say:

"As information for THE HARTFORD REPUBLICAN, we will state that there has been a saving of more than 10 per cent. on the bridges built in the county in the last seven years, and more than 25 per cent. on the building of the abutments. Now, either show this is incorrect or shut up about 'public outcry,' 'letting by secret bids,' etc."

The Herald and the ticket for which it speaks would be very glad indeed if we would shut up about "public outcry," "letting by secret bids, etc." but we will not, so long as it and its ticket refuse to answer these questions with more satisfaction and intelligence than they have yet done. We have been unable to learn from the public records—and these public matters should be open to the public—or any other source what has really been paid for these bridges and it is impossible for the Herald or anyone to know what per cent. has been saved or to have any definite knowledge approaching that point unless the actual cost can in some way be ascertained. In any event the Herald, the Democratic ticket or any of its members will do us and the voting public a great favor if they will explain that competition does not cheapen the price of an article even an iron bridge.

Wheat! Wheat!

Thousands of dollars is paid out every year for this most important cereal, and we can see no just reason why our farmers could not raise every bushel of wheat our people consume. And we honestly believe that with the proper effort upon the part of our farmers in preparing the soil and by the judicious use of the proper kind of Fertilizers and the proper increase of our acreage, we can succeed in producing all, and in many instances, even more than our people can use.

Farmers! Farmers!

We are still advocating the liberal use of the best grades of Fertilizers for the successful growth of wheat. After years of personal experience in the field, and as distributors, we especially urge you to use the HORSE SHOE BRANDS of Fertilizers for wheat. Field tests of every description in our immediate section have proven in every instance the superiority of this famous brand of Fertilizer.

Increase your acreage, use HORSE SHOE BRAND of PURE GROUND BONE liberally, and an ordinary season will produce for you a profitable and satisfactory yield.

THE FEARLESS PAUL JONES

Story of Famous Leader's Work on the English Coast During Revolutionary War.

Whitehaven was a town of considerable importance, says Cyrus Townsend Brady, in Metropolitan Magazine. It had a population of about 50,000 people, and several hundred vessels of all kinds were in the port. Two forts commanded its harbor, but John Paul Jones believed largely in the value of the unexpected, and by three o'clock in the morning was making for the place with twenty-two men armed with pistols and cutlasses. One of the cutters, in command of Capt. Jones himself, made directly for the town, and the other, under command of Lieut. Wallingford, pulled for the shipping docks on the opposite side of the harbor. Jones landed quietly, just as the first streaks of dawn were tinging the east, and leaving one man in the boat, set out at a run for the nearest fort. Gallantly scaling the walls, the party fell upon the small garrison and made them prisoners without firing a shot. After spiking the guns Jones locked the English soldiers in their own guardhouse and set out at a run for the other fort, half a mile away.

But during all this time there was no sign of the work of Wallingford, not a spark of light or a cloud of smoke to show that that officer was doing his part of the work. Not until Jones had reached the other fort and spiked the guns did he learn that Wallingford had abandoned the attempt because the match which he carried for the purpose had gone out.

It was broad daylight, and here and there were signs of activity in the houses near the docks. Capt. Jones had no time for delay. He boarded a large vessel and with his own hands kindled a fire in her stowage. Upon the flames he threw straw and hatchway gratings; a barrel of tar completed the work.

In the meanwhile the gathering of townsfolk had increased until the crowd had become a frantic mob which was now threatening the men and the landing place. Seeing that he could do no more, Jones went ashore, and, drawing his two pistols, went down to face fifteen hundred people! He was not a large man, but there was something in his face to supply the deficiency of majesty in stature. He swayed the mob with his pistols as a summer breeze moves a rye field. He reached the center and easily held the infuriated people at bay until the fire was well started and his men were safely seated in their cutter. After that he entered the boat and was pulled away.

Value of Hard Work.

All the records of history and all the facts of common experience support the statement that men do not die of hard work, but that hard working men who shun dissipation and avoid all waste of vitality live the longest. It was said of William Pitt that he died of old age in his forty-seventh year, worn out, not by hard work, though he worked hard, but by inattention to his health and imphilosophic worry and chagrin. President Roosevelt today in his forty-seventh year displays the exuberant energy of youth, not because he leads an easy life, but because, while working probably harder than any other officer of the government, he pays, as he has always paid, close attention to his health, and avoids the means of weakness and debility. — Boston Globe.

Partridge in Rabbit Burrow.

The French partridge must look on the rabbit as a true friend, for the bird has no compunction in making use of its burrow as a place of refuge in times of necessity. This tendency on its part is not generally known, but those who have to deal with the red leg on the wide heaths of Norfolk and Suffolk, which are infested with rabbits and perforated with their burrows, are fully aware of the manner in which the birds disappear below ground if driven very hard.

Like Sunshine.

Lions in captivity are affected by bad weather just as human beings are. A rainy day will make them limp and listless, while a glimpse of sunshine restores their spirits wonderfully.

Walks a Whole Lot.

"And you say your father suffers from dyspepsia?" asked the kind-hearted citizen.

"Yes, sir, that he does," said the little girl seeking alms.

"He should take more exercise; he doesn't walk enough."

"Oh, yes, he does, sir; it's him what rushes the can every time we has mixed ale, sir!" — Youkers Statesman.

WHAT ALASKA TOTEMISM IS

Some Light on an Interesting and Little Understood Subject Which Puzzled Scientists.

It is interesting to note that totemism is found, not only in Alaska, but among the North American Indians, the aborigines of Australia, the Hottentots of Africa and even the hill tribes of India, says the Housekeeper. Totems are also common among the Samoans.

Broadly, the totem is the badge of a clan or tribe; but it signifies a great deal more than mere political or social alliance. It is not only a tribal emblem, but also a family signal; not merely a symbol of nationality, but also an expression of religion; not simply a bond of union among primitive peoples, but also a regulator of the marriage laws and other social institutions. A totem has been defined as "a class of material objects which a savage regards with superstitious respect, believing that there exists between him and every member of the class an intimate and special relation."

Among the Tjibway Indians there are no fewer than 23 different totems. Nine of these are quadrupeds, marking out the wolf, the bear, the beaver and other clans, eight are birds, five are fishes and one is the snake.

Some extraordinary superstitions regarding totems prevail in Samoa. Thus, it is believed that if a turtle-man eats of a turtle, he will grow very ill and the voice of the turtle will be heard in his inside saying: "He ate me; I am killing him." If a banana-man uses a banana leaf for a cap he becomes bald. If a butterfly-man catches a butterfly it strikes him dead. If a fowl-man eats a fowl, delirium and death result. And so on—all going to show that the totem has something of the quality of a fetish as well as the significance of a family emblem.

Regarding totemism, it is to be noted that the relation of mutual help and protection includes also the totem itself; that is to say, if a man takes care of his totem, he expects the totem to return the compliment. If the totem is a dangerous animal, it must not hurt his clansmen. The scorpion-men of Senegambia declare that the most deadly scorpions will run over their bodies without hurting them. There is a snake clan in Australia which holds to a similar belief. Among the crocodile clan of the Bechuanas if a man is bitten by a crocodile, or even has water splashed on him by one, he is expelled from the clan as one unworthy of the totem.

The Catalpa Tree South.

Between the lumber manufacturer, the naval stores operator and the annual forest fires, the south is being rapidly denuded of her forests, while no effort is being made to perpetuate the pine timber. The express is of too slow growth to offer much hope, requiring 12 years to grow one inch in thickness. Recently the northern hardy catalpa has been introduced into the gulf states, and there is promise of an abundant supply of timber by the time the owner of a catalpa plantation in Louisiana has planted 50,000 of these trees in Florida for the East Coast Railroad company. A cypress tree four feet in diameter requires 300 years to grow; southern yellow pine grows large enough for sawing in from 75 to 120 years, while catalpa species two feet in diameter has been grown in New Orleans in 14 years. Because of this rapid growth it is now one of the trees most in favor for railroad ties. — Philadelphia Ledger.

THE COMMERCE OF EGYPT.

Purchasing Power of Native Cultivator Now Being Increased—Squalor Eliminated.

In closing a comprehensive report in regard to the commerce of Egypt and the share therein of the United States, Vice Consul General F. G. Morgan, at Cairo, draws the following pen picture of trade conditions in ancient Egypt:

"I have already mentioned that the purchasing power of the fellah native cultivator may now be exhibited, and he takes care that it is. It is but a few years since any display, not of wealth, but of being one degree above the limit of abject poverty, would have brought round the government tax gatherer with his persuasive korbash to wring out the last coin for the benefit of a depleted treasury. The fellah's craving for modern comfort, not to mention luxuries, increases with his growing prosperity and feeling of absolute security. Iron bedsteads and woven from mattresses have replaced the old 'angarebs' in sort of couch; wooden floors have made their appearance in upper rooms; cheap European carpets with gaudy colors take the place of red mats; bent wood chairs and substantial tables provided with crockery and cutlery, and a tablecloth, replace the old mat and brass tray which formerly represented the furniture of the dining apartment—and so on through a whole chapter.

"The picturesque squalor and poverty, once the delight of the artist, must be looked for now on the limits of cultivation, not near the Nile or in the neighborhood of the larger towns. Indeed, one often hears the complaint made that the oriental characteristics of Egypt are rapidly disappearing, whether it may be in connection with the handsome blocks of buildings being constructed all over the country or in the clothing and domestic life of the inhabitants. And it is to this new people and this new country—for it is a new country in spite of the hoary antiquity of its monuments and history—that I recommend American manufacturers to turn their serious attention."

A DENTAL TREASURE TROVE

Forceps Artist Advises That Gold Be Taken from Teeth of Dead and Given to Charity.

"I know where I could go right here in this country, and dig up millions of dollars' worth of treasure," said a dentist.

"Where would I go? To our cemeteries. To the mouths of our dead. In the teeth of our dead enough gold is going to waste to enrich a small town.

"You have in your teeth $10 in gold. Your sister has $5. Your father and mother have each $7. And there are 50,000,000 people in America.

"Allow to each person's teeth a half dollar's worth of gold. You have then $25,000,000 hidden in our mouths. When we die this gold won't be extracted. It will be buried with us.

"To take the gold from the teeth of the dead before burial would be neither difficult nor gruesome. It would be a good idea to pass a law requiring all this gold, which does no good in the grave, to be removed after death and distributed in charity."

Work for the Insane.

Work for the insane is a special study at the Villejuif asylum, Paris. Painting, carving, sketching, and even tattooing are included, and recovery is often due to the employment. In other cases the condition of the patient's mind is mirrored in the work done, aiding the physician in his study of the case more than any long discussions or consultations.

Woman's Privileges in France.

A French woman may become a doctor, a lawyer, or a member of the board of education. She may even be decorated with the cross of the Legion of Honor; but she may not witness a legal document.

On His Rights.

Kind-hearted Lady — Come back at seven o'clock to-night. Beggar — Impossible, madam. I belong to the union and they don't allow us to work overtime. — Megendorfer Bluetter.

Japanese are Untruthful.

Notwithstanding the policy of deceit and prevarication adopted by the Japanese War Department toward even its own people, as well as the out side world, in regard to the losses sustained in battle on land and sea, the truth is leaking out which show that Japan has not come out of these conflicts in such fine shape as she would have the general public believe. It now transpires, for instance that the converted cruiser Nippon was so badly damaged by the shells of the Russian warship in the battle of the sea of Japan that it was found necessary to run the vessel ashore to save her from being a total loss. Knowledge of such disasters as this coming after the official reports given out by the Japan Government, in which it is made to appear that they came out of the conflict with practically no loss or damage at all, does not tend to enhance respect or confidence in the future of dealings of that Power with other nations. It will give rise to the entirely just and rational suspicion that a nation which includes such unwarrantable and unnecessary trickery and falsification in time of war cannot be trusted in a time of peace.

Startling Mortality.

Statistics show startling mortality for appendicitis and peritonitis. To prevent and cure these awful diseases there is just one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills. M. Flannery of 14 Custom House Place, Chicago, says: "They have no equal for Constipation and Bileousness." 25c at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., druggist.

The Trouble With Corn.

Roasting ears this season are scarcely fit for swine. They are neither sweet nor milky. A Scotch-American of keenest observation said to me the other day: "I can easily explain why the green corn we use for the table is worthless. In gathering the ears they are thrown recklessly together in a basket or hamper, and allowed to remain there in close contact for hours. Now, the instant one ear touches another an excess of heat is generated which quickly sours the corn and destroys its flavor. Never let one ear touch another, whether in or out of the husk, until both are boiling in the pot."

CASTORIA.

The Kind You Have Always Bought. Bears the Signature of J. C. Watson

Long-Lived Animals.

In that interesting volume, "The Farmers' Notebook," the seventh edition of which has just been issued, a table is given showing the length of life enjoyed by animals and birds. One wonders why a sheep which is given 10 years should be shorter lived than any other farm creature. Even the dog and cat are credited with 13 and 12 years respectively. Other creatures have the following years assigned to them: Hen, 14; goat, 15; cow, 20 to 25; pig, 25, and horse, 35. The goose is reputed to be an octogenarian.

No Unpleasant Effect.

If you ever take DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what pill pleasant is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effect. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Lost Ships.

We pay but slight attention to the loss of a ship three days unless many lives are sacrificed. Therefore it is surprising to know that in the heavy storms of last April 113 vessels were destroyed, of which 77 were propelled by sail and 36 by steam. In addition, 376 suffered damage.

Nothing has ever equalled it. Nothing can ever surpass it.

MORE FISH YARNS.

Trout Jumped into Boiling Spring and Were Cooked for Anglers.

(Chicago Chronicle.)

"Speaking of fish," said Turner, as he knocked the ashes out of his pipe, "reminds me of the time when the fish were so plentiful that you didn't even have to put in a hook for them. Why, one time when I was fishing on the Fox River, in Wisconsin, the fellow who was with me in the boat suddenly said 'I have him,' and, reaching in the water, he grabbed a three-pound black bass with his hand and threw him into the boat."

"Oh, that's nothing," said Moore. "One time I was camping on the bank of a small trout stream in Colorado. The fish were so plenty that the sport of catching them grew tame because there was no trick in it at all. There were two of us, and we had been out after dark all day, but not a sign of a trout was visible, and we returned to camp hungry and tired. We built a fire, put over the frying pan with some lard in it, and were just about to put in a fish which we had cleaned in the morning, when we saw a fox dash out of the woods and make for the timber on the other side of the clearing."

"We both grabbed our guns and ran in pursuit, but he was lost sight of in an instant, and we returned to camp. But the funny part of it was that while we were gone a fish had leaped out of the water into our frying pan and was cooked to a turn when we arrived."

Moore deftly dodged a sofa pillow, and then Johnson spoke:

"Speaking of cooking fish reminds me of the way we used to cook 'em when I was out in the Yellowstone. You know, they frequently have out there an ice-cold trout stream on one side of a hill and a boiling hot spring on the other. When we wanted some fish to eat we just went down to one of those hills with a rod and tackle. We would throw the fly into the cold spring, and in less time than it takes to tell it a big trout would be on the hook. Then we would fling the line with the fish on it over into the hot spring, and in about 10 minutes that trout was boiled to a turn—"

But here the meeting broke up.

Numerous and Worthless.

Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Salve. E. C. DeWitt & Co., of Chicago, discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruised and all skin diseases DeWitt's Salve has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Robin Kills an Adder.

In a vigorous battle between a robin and an adder 14 inches long the bird killed the snake. The fight took place in the garden of George S. Johns, in Leominster, Mass., and was seen by John A. Hannis and others, who were attracted to the scene by the calls of the birds, which had collected in the trees to urge on their plucky mate. The robin had a nest of little ones in an apple tree near the garden. When the snake wriggled across the field toward the tree the bird swooped down and attacked it vigorously with claws and bill, aiming its attacks at the head of the adder, which spat and hissed, but was soon put out of the battle. Not, however, on the first round, as it gradually came on after the robin and left it and began to move. The bird discovered the motion and flew again at the snake, not leaving it until it was dead.

Can You Eat?

J. B. Taylor a prominent merchant of Chriesman, Tex., says: "I could not eat because of a weak stomach. I lost all strength and ran down in weight. All the money could do was done, but all hope of recovery vanished. Hearing of some wonderful cures effected by use of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, I concluded to try it. The first bottle benefited me, and after taking four bottles, I am fully restored to my usual strength, weight and health." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Cut The Weeds.

When Tennyson wrote "Come into the Garden Maud" he had never contemplated the weeds that have grown in our gardens and on farms this summer as the result of frequent rains. The oldest inhabitant and the youngest farmer agreed that "the mind of man summeth not" when weeds were so plentiful and large at this season's crop, and the man who lets the weeds grow unmolested will find himself and family not only with a couple of weeks on hand but a case of malaria or typhoid fever, or hay fever, which is said to be the result of inhaling the pollen of ragweed, goldenrod and other weeds that irritate the mucous membrane of the nose throat and lungs. Exterminate the weeds and reduce to a minimum the liability to these dread diseases.

Best For Children.

Mothers, be careful of the health of your Children. Look out for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. Stop them in time—One Minute Cough Cure is the best remedy. Harmless and pleasant. Contains no opiates. Sold by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro.

Artesian Well Spouts Fish.

E. J. Sims, a farmer in the western part of Otter Tail County, this state, got a big surprise when he sank a well in his meadow a few days ago. There are artesian wells all over that locality, but Farmer Sims got not only water, but seven tons of fish from his. Evidently the bore tapped an underground lake, for the water gushed out in great volume scattering wriggling finny things all over the farm. Already Sims has removed and buried five wagon load of the fish. They are all about four inches in length and have no eyes. Mrs. Sims cooked several of them but found them to be almost tasteless.

Strikes Hidden Rocks.

When your ship of health strikes the hidden rocks of consumption, Pneumonia, etc., you are lost, if you don't get help from Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. J. W. McKinnon, of Talladega Springs, Ala., writes: "I had been very ill with pneumonia under the care of two doctors, but was getting no better when I began to take Dr. King's New Discovery. The first dose gave relief, and one bottle cured me." Sure cure for sore throat, bronchitis, coughs and colds. Guaranteed at Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., drug store, price 50c and $1.00 Trial bottle free.

Those Corn Crops.

Kansas Man—Let me tell you what we did. The other day we went out to the cornfield and found where an old rat had built a nest in a corn shock. We pulled the shock down and took out a bushel of shelled corn besides her nest.

Oklahoma Man—That's nothin'. We went out in the cornfield the other day and heard the dog's bark, and when we got to him he had a coon treed up a cornstalk. We chopped the stalk down and took five young coons and their mammy out of the shock.

Japan's New Island.

Will Japan's new island that appeared recently from the depths of the sea endure? Scientists have been asking this question. Graham island popped up in much the same way in the Mediterranean sea in 1831 and was at once decorated with an English flag. But the action of the waves demolished the island in a short time. On the other hand, the island of Bogosloff, in the Bering sea, appeared with equal suddenness in 1795 and, together with a second island formed in 1883, has stood the test of time to the present day.

The Renewal a Strain.

Vacation is over. Again the school bell rings at morning and at noon, again with tens of thousands the hardest kind of work has begun, the renewal which is a mental and physical strain to all except the most rugged. The little girl that a few days ago had roses in her cheeks, and the little boy whose lips were then so red you would have insisted that they had been "kissed by strawberries," have already lost something of the appearance of health. Now is a time when many children should be given a tonic, which may avert much serious trouble, and we know of no other so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which strengthens the nerves, perfects digestion and assimilation, and aids mental development by building up the whole system.

An Indisputable SAFE INVESTMENT

The material progress which our country is now, and has been making for the past decade of years, naturally brings to the surface numerous schemes of the "get-rich-quick" character that benefit only the promoters of such, at the expense of innocent investors.

In this age of genuine prosperity with every legitimate business booming, wages high, work in abundance, giving employment to all willing to earn, and products of the farm bringing best prices; there is little or no excuse for one not to join the army of money-makers.

The first and safest investment to make is to become a reader of the CINCINNATI ENQUIRER, the greatest and most reliable newspaper in the United States. With the facts, truth and information gleaned from its columns, one may become well qualified to reach out and secure his share of profit that always accrues from investments intelligently made.

The WEEKLY ENQUIRER costs but one dollar for one year's term. The SUNDAY ENQUIRER costs you two dollars for a year. The DAILY ENQUIRER (7 issues a week) you get for fourteen dollars a year.

Without the aid of a first-class newspaper, success in any enterprise becomes problematical. For ten cents you can secure a sample copy of each, DAILY, SUNDAY and WEEKLY ENQUIRER.
